The Draft Horse by Robert Frost

With a lantern that wouldn't burn
 In too frail a buggy we drove
 Behind too heavy a horse
 Through a pitch-dark limitless grove.

The most unquestioning pair
 That ever accepted fate
 And the least disposed to ascribe
 Any more than we had to to hate.

And a man came out of the trees
 And took our horse by the head
 And reaching back to his ribs
 Deliberately stabbed him dead.

We assumed that the man himself
 Or someone he had to obey
 Wanted us to get down
 And walk the rest of the way

The ponderous beast went down
 With a crack of a broken shaft.
 And the night drew through the trees
 In one long invidious draft.

Winger, the subject of Isaiah's Forum, deals with the pressures teen-age boys must face.

"God & Gabe": The play, written by Kent Shifferd, features a conversation between God and the Angel Gabriel. God is trying to make sense of humans and has Gabe bring various people before Him so he can question them.
